MAUDE ADAMS, after a too long absence, returned to the stage last week and received the ovation deserved and expected, in Cleveland. I remember the night of her New York City debut in December 1888, in Charles H. Hoyt's "The Midnight Bell," at the Bijou Theatre. I had spent several months in Pittsburgh, doing what I could to help elect Benjamin Harrison President. That accomplished, I returned to the stage upon which my debut had been made three years previously.

A great cast of established favorites was assembled, Isabella Coe, Thomas Q. Seabrooke, Eugene Canfield and others. The ingenue was a young girl, who had recently come from Salt Lake City with her mother. 1 that Maude Adams was then that Maude Adams was then impression about 18. Her career is known to every theatre goer from 15 to 40 years ago. Her life has been a shining example. Soon after the death of Charles Frohman, 15 years ago, she retired. Seven years ago, while I was acting in a picture on Long Island, I met a man who told me that Maude Adams was deeply interested in developing a new, important light, for the motion picture industry. I sent my kindest wishes to her. Soon after, I spent a very interesting three hours with her, in the Colony Club. We talked of the light and also of "Kim." Nineteen deeds, one mort-gage and six trust deeds were filed in October affecting local real estate, compared with 14 deeds, one mortgage and 12 trust deeds for September.

While real estate transfers

as evidenced by deed filings in the incorporated cities in Los Angeles County were one-fifth less in number than they were in October 1930, there was a gain of over 3 per cent in com-parison with September 1931, according to the California Title Insurance Company.

There were 8 new subdivisions, containing a total of 66 lots, opened in the County last month, bringing the total number of new tracts filed since the first of the year up to 94, embracing 2339 parcels of land.

Fire Creeps Into Pasadena When Its Firemen Refuse Aid

Refusal of the Pasadena fire department to answer a call, and delay in summoning the county equipment from La Canada, saw $1,000 go up in smoke at 245 South Huntington Drive, a week ago. The fire started in a garage, and before it was put out it was across the Pasadena line, which is 150 feet from the spot where the blaze originated. Repeated calls were sent to the Pasadena department. "You'll have to call La Canada," came back the answer. "We have or-ders not to answer calls outside the city limits."

Two engines from Pasadena arrived on the scene about the same time as the La Canada equipment to find the fire had reached their own territory. If they had re-sponded on the first call, and protected the property on the city side of the line, there would have been little damage.

Sierra Madre Girls Hold All Offices

By SAM HOHRI That the girls of Sierra Madre are able to hold executive posi-tions may be seen in the fact that all major offices of the Euodia club, a girls' organization, are held by Sierra Madre students. Dorothy Ronge serves the society as president, Sarah Ware is vice-president. June Lacey takes care of all the financial troubles.

The Euodia club is an after extra-curricular society for girls at Woodrow Wilson Jr. High. Its meetings are held every Tuesday. The purpose of the club is to give students a place to study religious subjects.

The annual Father and Son Banquet of Woodrow Wilson Jr. High will be held tonight in Willard cafeteria. The banquet is being sponsored by the Boy's League, of which all boys at the school are members.

Owing to the great talent shown by members of the faculty of Woodrow Wilson junior high school during the High Jinks assembly on Friday, October 30, many members of the student body feel that there is a possibility of the logs of some teach bility of the loss of some teachers to Ziegfeld Follies or Fanchon

If every family that has cast-off or damaged dolls and toys will do its part the youngsters of Sierra Madre will have a real Christmas. Stir your friends and neighbors up and have them send dis-carded playthings down to headquarters, or call on the phone and a fireman will come after them. Seems a long time between meetings, but there's one tonight, thank goodness. When there is a long stretch between the gather--as there has been since the one—the men get nervous and fidgety and this week a lot of the boys have dropped around to take a look at the equipment and get in touch with gossip of the department. It is a rather curious fact that the boys put in little time around the headquar-ers except when they actually have business there or there is a meeting. They are all good family men and spend their evenings with their families.

The ladies of the Department met last Friday and have finished the quilt that has been occupying their time for the past few weeks A very pretty quilt it is, and three of our members weer close enough to be called in to see it, and incidently enjoyed some the fine salad that the ladies had prepared. Roy Walsworth came prepared, however. He brought with him two large onions and two avocados. Don Hosford, who has been absent all summer, has not been heard from of late and his smiling countenance is sorely missed. According to the weather, we expect to see him soon, for there must be snow at Lake Tahoe by this time. There is some talk of organizing a basket ball team to compete with the other teams of our city. Well, if some of our men can't hold a ball any better than Geese, including brandt, four in they shuffle cards, they will need a basket. Some of the South-West members should make fine basket ball players.

Great Trees On Foothill Boulevard Destroyed While County Moves To Save Those That Adorn Valley Highway

On the eve of the destruction of the ornamental shade trees lining Foothill boulevard between Sierra Madre avenue and Fifth avenue, Arcadia, word comes that Spence D. Turner, Los Angeles county forester, has arranged that the 257 trees along Valley boulevard, between Walnut and Pomona, will be saved and replanted along the route.

Since the work of widening Foothill boulevard, West of Sierra Madre avenue began several weeks ago, and the magnificent eucalyptus trees planted by 'Lucky' Baldwin when he gave the right of way for the highway began to tumble under the axe and saw, there has been many a pang of regret. And since the disclosure of the plan to save the Pomona trees on Valley boulevard, many are asking why some effort was not made to preserve the Foothill towers of beauty. In all Southern California there nothing to match the Foothill

WINTER FLOWERING ANNUALS

By JESSIE WARD RUSSELL Landscape Gardener

TOCKS will head the list of winter flowers for the gar-den. They look best in solid beds or borders or planted in front of shrub masses. As they grow medium high they can be used in front of taller annuals as snap dragons or larkspur. The Bismark varieties are an improved strain that are heavily branched and very double. The blossoms often overlap each other and press together to load the stem with a solid mass of color. The fragrance is delicious, reminding one of the perfume of the clove pinks. Stocks come in many shades of lavender, purple, pink, rose, majenta-red and pure white. They prefer sunshine and must have good drainage. Plant one to one and a half feet apart.

Snapdragons are indispensable in the winter garden for masses of color. They grow medium to tall and can usually be used for backgrounds for other annuals. They come in pink, rose, orange, yellow, red and white, in fact every shade but blue. They should be planted one to one and one half feet apart in the full sun-

Calendulas are the easiest of all the winter annuals to grow and will give a great abundance of bloom all winter. They are excellent for beds or borders and are not particular about soil conditions. They grow about one foot high, come in yellow or orange colors and should be planted about one foot apart.

Pansies are so well known that they require no description. They want rich soil and plenty of water. Do not plant in shade of trees or buildings if you want winter bloom as they need the heat of the sun to make them Plant about 12 inches apart in beds or borders. Violas are used where a mass of bright blue is needed. They are like small pansies. They should also have rich soil and be planted closer together than pansies. They grow low to the ground and are splendid for borders in front of annuals or shrubs, around the base of small trees be planted only to a depth of or standard roses or wherever three to four inches, while most on edging or mass of color is leeded.

From December to Spring is an edging or mass of color is needed.

Small plants of the above annuals can be secured at small cost or they can be grown from seed although it is too late now to get winter bloom from seed as the seed should be planted in July and August. If young plants are set out now they will soon begin to bloom. If grown from seed they will not bloom until Spring.

Dance Planned By Juniors Of Woman's Club November 20

Plans for a benefit dance, the proceeds of which will go toward to serve the sun will strike the planting season for lilies. The most desirable location in the most desirable lo proceeds of which will go toward a scholarship fund for a worthy Sierra Madre girl, were discussed on last Tuesday evening at a meeting of the Junior League of the Woman's Club at the home of Miss Bertha Lee Fitzgerald, 154 East Central avenue. The dance will be held at the clubhouse

The club made plans for the furnishing and redecorating of the room turned over to them by the Woman's Club. Three More Groups Of Citrus Growers

Three associations with annual shipments totaling 650 carloads of citrus fruits were added to the steadily growing California Fruit Growers Exchange membership during the past week, it is an-nounced by Paul S. Armstrong, general manager of the Exchange. Their membership totals 235 growers with nearly 2,300 acres. This brings the number of Sunkist growers to approximately

The new shippers are the Puente Mutual Citrus Association, the Eadington Fruit Company of Fullerton, and the Placentia Cooperative Orange Association.
Many individual citrus growers are also joining the Exchange at the present time. This, points ont Mr. Armstrong, is a further testi-monial to the ability of the Ex-change, in times of stress, to best protect the interests of the grow-

In this connection Mr. Armstrong showed that an important consideration in these new members' decision to join the Ex-change was the comparison of returns. In the case of one of the houses, returns on Exchange fruit shipped through nearby Sunkist houses were shown to be approxiand in the case of one of the other houses, Exchange returns were 35 cents higher.

LILY VARIETIES THAT ARE VERY EASILY GROWN

There are many hardy varieties of lilies available on the Pacific coast. Indeed there are lilies for most every climate, including the Regale, Auratum, Rubrum, Tigrinum, Album, and Giganteum, all of which may be grown where the winters are mild, and the

To this list may be added Henryi, Magnificum, Melpomme, and others, which grow luxuriantly in the higher altitudes with more severe winters, and there is considerable rainfall.

The Madonna Lily (Lilium Candidum) usually opens the lily planting season. This lily should soil.

The one standby for all soils and situations is the old-fashioned Tiger Lily, which, because it is common, has not been properly appreciated. It seems now to be coming into its own, however, and coming into its own, however, and properly associated with surrounding plants, makes a striking garden picture.

Baseball is just one of his hobbies and he showed brilliantly during the summer as a member of the Sierra Madre Legion team. What boy, girl or grown folk will forget the night he slugged himself into the hall of fema by slamming out a home of fame by slamming out a home run with three on bases in the ninth inning to score runs that brought victory out of defeat for the home team contenders in the Legion League. It was a mighty swat. Ezra played consistently good baseball throughout the season and was considered one of the team's stand-bys. Overhead Is Light

"Our very efficient secretary, Mrs. Buehring, who has had exactly the training necessary for just this work, is giving full time service for half time pay and she is the only one who is receiving any pay whatever. All other services are being donated.

"No one who investigates can honestly object to our overhead expense. I doubt if many even thought about it, but we do not want one person in Sierra Madre to be under any wrong impression about this work.

"Most people are so interested and helpful. The ladies of the Congregational Church turned over to us all the clothes and articles left from the rummage sale held by them last Saturday.

"We will sell the clothes at a nominal price to those who can pay. Of course, in case of need, clothes and other articles are given freely. Mothers with children needing clothes should look even cure."

There is no necessity for even the hard-est pressed to be ragged."

Teachers Give Pay

Dean Bode, chairman of the Roll Call, announces that the school teachers have all agreed to give a percentage of their salaries monthly for the balance of the school year. He said, "As some of the teachers have more dependents than others, the amounts vary, but the regular donation is most gratifying.
